

Ever feel like you're dragging
your ass on a run?
Bart's dealt with it, literally.

Known to colleagues at RUNNER'S WORLD magazine as the "Mayor of Running" and to runners everywhere as the inventor of the Yasso 800s, Bart Yasso has seen it all and run it all. Now he shares his adventures in his first-ever book, My Life on the Run: The Wit, Wisdom, and Insights of a Road Racing Icon. With more than 1,000 competitive races under his belt, Bart reveals the humor and exhilaration of running the frigid Antarctica Marathon, conquering Mt. Kilimanjaro with a mystery illness, running a race in the nude, confronting an angry rhino on the trail, the pitfalls of burro racing, and more.

Plus inside stories on memorable runners who have crossed his path, Bart's best training secrets and schedules, and his list of the best races in the world.
